CONCEPT

inspired by ancient Sri Lankan rituals and the concept of healing through artistry "Bhairava" draws inspiration from the profound rituals of ancient Sri Lanka, where healing and artistry intertwine. My collection unveils a trio of dresses, each evoking the mystique and symbolism of the Buta, Naga, and Maru illnesses. Holding the Buta dress as my Hero piece, it's a celestial embodiment of ethereal derangement. Its graceful silhouette and intricately designed print fluidly reflect the listlessness that afflicts limbs. Artful asymmetry harmonizes with flowing lines, composing a mesmerizing symphony of structural artistry and boundless allure.

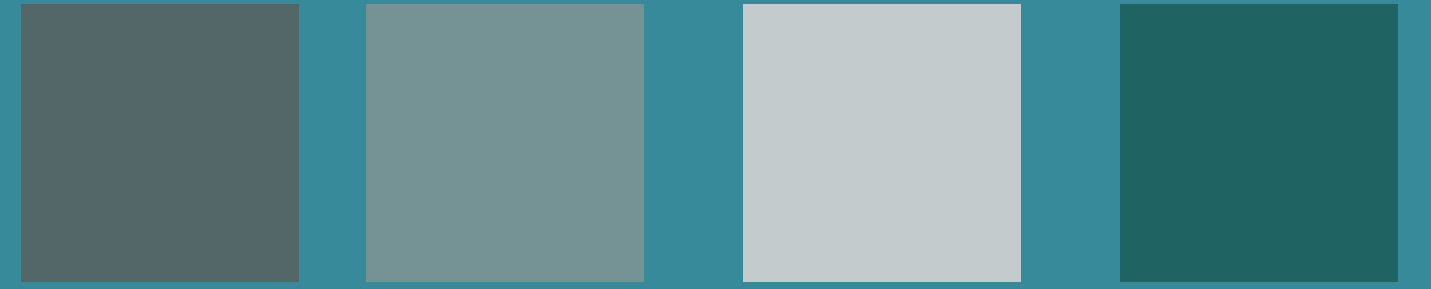

The Naga dress, an emblem of transformative healing, weaves a tale of metamorphosis. Delicate textures and cascading drapery embody the shedding of skin, celebrating resilience and rebirth. While celebrating print and using it as a device to promote concept and meaning, this dress utilizes a snake print to further highlight the motif of shedding skin.

The Maru dress, where enchantment unfolds through captivating contortions and emotive motions. Layers of fabric cascade, mirroring the undulating dance of the eyes. Each meticulously placed embellishment becomes an ethereal manifestation of the mesmerizing wallowing, invoking a captivating interplay of movement and stillness.

With "Bhairava" it is intended tradition seamlessly intertwines with artistic mastery, offering a transformative experience that transcends mere garments. Adorned with these enchanting creations, individuals embody the rich culture of Sri Lanka and her traditions while also experiencing it in a modern and contemporary look.
